Join us for The Inaugural CN-NIAID Symposium

Monday, September 17, 2018

Sponsored by Children's National Health System and the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases (NIAID)

- A one-day symposium bringing together investigators, researchers, clinicians, and other interested participants from NIAID and Children's National to discuss the creation, progress, and evolution of this first-of-its-kind collaboration between the NIAID at the National Institutes of Health and Children's National, a pediatric academic medical center.
- The symposium seeks to enhance knowledge and inspire present and future investigators to continue the search for innovative treatment approaches that will improve the lives of children with immunologic, allergic, auto-inflammatory, and infectious diseases.

WELCOME TO THE FIRST CN-NIAID SYMPOSIUM

We are excited to gather this esteemed group of guests here at Children's National. We hope that today's agenda will do more than inform attendees about the latest research underway within this unique collaboration. We anticipate it will inspire you to ask new questions and propose new areas of collaboration that will improve the lives of children around the globe. If you've never seen the world-class clinical care happening here at Children's National, be sure to participate in the hospital tour scheduled for 11 a.m.

Target Audiences

This conference is intended for researchers, investigators, health care professionals, and related staff interested in pediatric partnership studies. Specific areas of interest include:

- Neurology
- Rheumatology
- Immunodeficiencies
- Food allergies
- Infectious diseases
- Auto-inflammatory diseases

Learning Objectives

- Be informed of the new CN-NIAID research partnership and the specific research aims and training program related to allergy and infectious diseases under the collaboration
- Describe the National Center for Advancing Translational Sciences (NCATS) and the NIAID supplement to the Clinical and Translational Science Award (CTSA) program as the framework to help support the partnership
- Recognize the elements that helped establish a successful partnership between the two health care institutions
- Interpret the barriers presented and lessons learned in paving the way for this type of novel partnership
